Book Recommendations

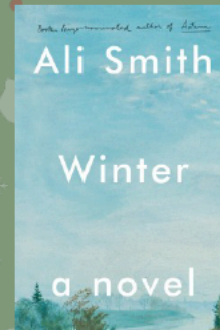

Raven Black by Ann Cleeves

Raven Black is the story of two murders separated in time. It is on the surface a fairly straightforward police procedural. What makes the novel stand out is the sense of place that seeps through its pages and the amazing level of detail through which Cleeves defines her characters, in particular Jimmy Perez and the recluse Magnus Tait.

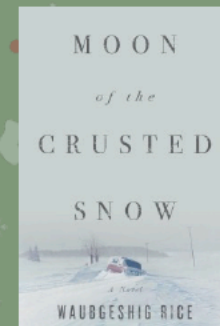

All the White Spaces by Ally Wilkes

All the White Spaces is an icy descent into grief, loneliness and madness at the furthest reaches of the globe. A group of explorers, trapped on the frozen Arctic tundra, must reckon with their own past and the ever-growing threat of the supernatural presence lurking outside the cabin door.

Winter by Ali Smith

In Winter, Sophia Cleves is haunted by the ghostly, disembodied head of a small child. The novel jumps around in time, but the story at its core concerns a Christmas gathering in which all of the characters descend on Sophia's big, old house and attempt to make merry in the present day.

Moon of the Crusted Snow by Waubgeshig, Rice

Moon of the Crusted Snow is an allegory for First Nation people's experiences under colonial oppression. Set on a remote Anishinaabe reserve in Northern Canada, the plot revolves around a widespread power outage that throws the region into chaos during a brutally frigid winter.
